To His Royal Highness Edward Albert Christian George Andrew Patrick David, Prince of Wales, Earl of Chester, in the Peerage of the United Kingdom, Duke of Cornwall, in the Peerage of England; Duke of Rothesay, Earl of Carrick and Baron Renfrew, in the Peerage of Scotland; Lord of the Isles and Great Steward of Scotland, K. G., G.M.M.G., M.C., D.C.L.,etc., etc.

.....

MAY it please your Royal Highness:

One of our most cherished traditions in the Dominion of Canada is the personal connection that we have had with the reigning House of Great Britain. And in the University we honour this tradition as a special privilege. In 1861 King Edward VII, then Prince of Wales, was enrolled as a matriculated student, and was welcomed in a spirit well expressed by the words on the scroll, now for the third time on a similar occasion displayed in public Convocation of the University: Imperii Spem Spes Provinciae Salutat

We regret that owing to the time of year so few of our undergraduates, the rising hope of this province, as was said so many years ago, are unable to be here to give you their loyal greeting. In 1901 your Father, then also Prince of Wales, graciously accepted the degree of Doctor of Laws. We also call to mind with pleasure that His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, after he became Governor General of the Dominion, accepted the same degree, and continued to show a kindly interest in our work by frequently visiting the University. One of the most unique benefactions that the University has received bears his name, the Connaught Laboratories, for the manufacture of anti-toxins and the investigation of the problems in Hygiene.

Therefore it seems to us that His Royal Highness has almost an hereditary right to hold a place of honour on our Roll, and it ~~is to us a great pleasure~~ was a graet pleasure to us when we learned that His Royal Highness was willing to accept this degree and thereby to unite this University still more closely to the House of Windsor.

May I be permitted to repeat what was expressed yesterday in the address of the University to His Royal Highness, that the frequent visits he paid to our Canadian Corps in France and to our units in England have left the warmest memories among our soldiers. Very many of these were our own graduates and members of our Staff, and several of them cherish the honour of having been presented to His Royal Highness. I may add that more than 6000 graduates and students of this University went on active service, of whom more than 600 have fallen. For these it is the intention of the graduates and friends of the University to raise a worthy memorial/

Having graciously established a personal relationship with our soldiers students and graduates in the war, Your Royal Highness will henceforth find them, even more on this account, your devoted followers, who will be no less faithful and effective in times of peace in building up this Dominion within the Empire. over which, when Providence may so determine, we hope that you may long reign.

~~Copy.~~

May it please Your Royal Highness:

One of our most cherished traditions in the Dominion of Canada is the personal connection that we have had with the reigning House of Great Britain. And in the University we honour this tradition as a special privilege. In 1860 King Edward VII, then Prince of Wales, was enrolled as a matriculated student, and was welcomed in a spirit well expressed by the words on the scroll, now for the third time on a similar occasion displayed in public Convocation of the University: Imperii Spem Spes Provinciae Salutat.

We regret that owing to the time of year so few of our undergraduates, the rising hope of this province, as was said so many years ago, are able to be here to give you their loyal greeting. In 1901 your Father, then also Prince of Wales, graciously accepted the degree of Doctor of Laws. We also call to mind with pleasure that His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, after he became Governor General of the Dominion, accepted the same degree, and continued to show a kindly interest in our work by frequently visiting the University. One of the most unique benefactions that the University has received bears his name, the Connaught Laboratories, for the manufacture of anti-toxins and the investigation of problems in Hygiene.

Therefore it seems to us that His Royal Highness has almost an hereditary right to hold a place of honour on our roll, and it was a great pleasure to us when we learned that His Royal Highness was willing to accept this degree and thereby to unite this University still more closely to the House of Windsor.

May I be permitted to repeat what was expressed yesterday in the address of the University to His Royal Highness, that the frequent visits he paid to our Canadian Corps in France and to our units in England have left the warmest memories among our soldiers. Very many of these were our own graduates and members of our staff, and several of them cherish the honour of having been presented to His Royal Highness. I may add that more than 6000 graduates and students of this University went on active service, of whom more than 600 have fallen. For these it is the intention of the graduates and friends of the University to raise a worthy memorial.

Having graciously established a personal relationship with our soldier students and graduates in the war, Your Royal Highness will henceforth find them, even more on this account, your devoted followers, who will be no less faithful and effective in times of peace in building up this Dominion within the Empire, over which, when Providence may so determine, we hope that you may long reign.

Make copy of original

University of Toronto
PRESIDENT'S OFFICE

May it please Your Royal Highness:

One of our most cherished traditions in the Dominion of Canada is the personal connection that we have had with the reigning House of Great Britain. And in the University we honour this tradition as an especial privilege. In 1861 King Edward VII, then Prince of Wales, was enrolled as a matriculated student, and was welcomed in a spirit well expressed by the words on the scroll, now for the third time on a similar occasion displayed in public Convocation of the University: Imperii Spem Spes Provinciae salutat. We regret that owing to the time of year so few of our undergraduates, the rising hope of this province, as was said so many years ago, are unable to be here to give you their loyal greeting. In 1901 your Father, then also Prince of Wales, graciously accepted the degree of Doctor of Laws. We also call to mind with pleasure that His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, after he became Governor General of the Dominion, accepted the same degree, and continued to show a kindly interest in our work by frequently visiting the University. One of the most unique benfactions that the University has received bears his name, the Connaught Laboratories, for the manufacture of anti-toxins and the investigation of problems in Hygiene.

Therefore it seems to us that His Royal Highness you have almost an hereditary right to hold a place of honour upon our Roll, and it is to us a great pleasure that you are willing to accept this degree and thereby to unite this University still more closely to the House of Windsor.

May I be permitted to repeat what was expressed yesterday in the address of the University to His Royal Highness, that the frequent visits he paid to our Canadian Corps in France and to our units in England have left the warmest memories among our soldiers. Very many of these were our own graduates and members of our Staff, and several of them cherish the honour of having been presented to His Royal Highness. I may add that more than 6000 graduates and students of this university went on active service, of whom more than 600 have fallen. For these it is the intention of the graduates and friends of the University to raise a worthy memorial.

Having graciously established a personal relationship with our soldier students and graduates in war, you will henceforth find them, even more on this account, your devoted followers, who will be no less faithful and effective in times of peace in building up this Dominion within the Empire, over which, when Providence may so determine, we hope that you may long reign.